

2015 THOMAS E. NOONAN DISTINGUISHED LECTURE

“Surprises in CoC History: Who Was Responsible for Starting Computing at Georgia Tech?”

Peter Freeman, Professor Emeritus & CoC Founding Dean | April 23, 2015

Text & visuals of this lecture can be found at: gtcomputing25-50.gatech.edu/timeline

Related information can be found at:

- College of Computing Timeline (2015): gtcomputing25-50.gatech.edu/timeline
Compiled in 2014-15, it is based on previous timelines, interviews, videos, contributions, and numerous original sources. As of Spring 2015 it contains entries from 1947-2014, most of which are validated.
- Interview with Vladimir Slamecka (1998): tinyurl.com/q32eqsb
This video of almost two hours provides a fascinating account of a personal history that began in Czechoslovakia before WW2 and included being founding director of what later became the College of Computing.
- Memoir of Ray Miller (2002): tinyurl.com/k2br8f3
Written on the occasion of his retirement from the University of Maryland in 2002, Chapter 7 provides a first-hand account of his years as Director of ICS.
- The Dorothy Crosland Story (2001): tinyurl.com/q5nbct4
A short video on her life and accomplishments.